CMC Progress Continues

June 16, 2010---Carlsbad Medical Center is undergoing a nationwide search for a chief executive officer, following last month's resignation of former CEO Janet Carbary. In the interim, experienced healthcare executive Elmer Hyde is serving as administrator of the hospital. Hyde brings more than 30 years of hospital management experience to CMC.

This is a great hospital and a wonderful community," said Hyde. "I am grateful for the opportunity to work with the dedicated leadership, Board, employees and physicians at Carlsbad Medical Center. The hospital's renovation work to expand surgical services and enhance the OB unit is on track, and we're moving full speed ahead with the hospital's other initiatives to increase local access to sophisticated services, including recruitment of new physicians. Whether it's day-to-day care or working together to plan for improvements or additions to services, I'm impressed with the entire team's focus on providing outstanding quality and care for patients in the Carlsbad area."

The senior leadership team at the hospital includes hospital management professionals with a wealth of experience in the industry and at CMC. In addition to Hyde, the hospital's leadership team includes Carol Welch, chief nursing officer, and Dennis Bynum, who is temporarily serving as chief financial officer.

Board and Medical Staff leaders will be involved in the selection of a new CEO. "The most important thing is to find the best candidate who is an enthusiastic and accomplished leader, and a good fit for our hospital and our community," said John Waters, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees. An announcement about the final selection will be made once a decision is made, according to Waters.
